JOSEPH 'DOC' RHODES

Rhodes named top SAAU athlete

By RICH ADAMS

Joseph "Doc" Rhodes of Bay St. Louis, 1977 Amateur Athlete's Union (AAU) World Weightlifting Champion, has been named the Southern Amateur Athlete's Association (SAAU) Outstanding Athlete of the Year.

Rhodes will receive the award at an SAAU banquet at the Fountain Bay Club Hotel in New Orleans, La., June 2.

Rhodes' selection as the SAAU Outstanding Athlete of the Year recognizes him as the outstanding athlete in all sports in the tri-state area of Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama.

Rhodes is a weightlifter in the 'elite' class of strong men, equivalent to a black belt in karate or a PhD in education.

He is slated to join other top weightlifters at the AAU Senior National Weightlift Meet, considered the U.S. Championships, at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis August 18 and 19.

Rhodes gained national fame in 1977 when he won the World Championship in weightlifting at Perth, Australia.

He presently holds state records for squat, dead, and bench lifts in three weight categories.

He set state records in those three events in the 181-pound category at the Mississippi State Powerlift Meet at St. Stanislaus High School in February, lifting a total weight of 1,725 pounds.

He also holds state records in the 148- and 165-pound divisions.

Rhodes lifts with the weightlifting team 'Mississippi Ironmen.'

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Rhodes, reside at 354 Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

Klein calls publicity 'election-year politics'

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County District One Justice Court Judge Lee Klein feels recent media reports on judges' earnings are an attempt to discredit the magistrates during an election year by implying their salaries are excessive.

"It only happens during election years," said Klein, "the media uses us as kicking dogs, implying that we get exorbitant salaries."

The Justice Court judges are required to file annual income reports with the Secretary of State's office in Jackson.

According to those reports from Hancock County Justice Court judges, William Frisbie, District Five, earned $2,939 in 1978; Joseph Dobson, District Four, $17,623; Lloyd Anderson, District Three, $38,552; Horatio Frierson, District Two, $37,785; and Lee B. Klein, District One, $28,008.

The judges work under a fee system in which salaries are dependent upon the number of cases handled.

George Saxon, Mississippi Highway Safety Inspector for the Eighth District which includes Hancock County, says "Many speeding tickets were issued in Hancock County during 1978, and this in turn increases the salaries of the judges."

"The reasons many tickets were issued in Hancock County during 1978 is because we stationed an additional patrolman in the county in 1978," Saxon explained.

"Highway fatalities had been on the increase in Hancock, and media reports informed our department states not enforcing the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit would lose federal funds from the Highway Safety Bureau," Saxon elaborated.

The justice court judge's fee for each traffic ticket he handles increased from $6 to $10 in mid-1978, which also contributes to the increase in the judges' salaries from 1977.

Klein agreed those four reasons explain the judges' salary increases from 1977.

According to records, earnings for the judges in 1977 were: Klein's $28,008 earnings in 1978 was some four times what he made in 1977; Frierson Jr., $5,600; Anderson, $5,800; Dobson's $17,623 earnings in 1978 quadrupled his 1977 earnings; and Frisbie, $1,700.

Klein says "The fee-system works well. The system does not cost the taxpayer a nickel and it better represents the people in my district."

"If there was an amendment to the state constitution to abolish the Justice Court fee-system, the taxpayer might have to foot the bill."

"Justice judges might be appointed instead of elected; thereby political friendships might come into the picture," Klein predicted.

"The fee-system was enacted by the Mississippi Legislature, not by us—we just work under it," exclaims Klein.

Klein believes people in each of the five districts can be better represented because justice judges come up for re-

State says no charter

Gulf Fishermen Inc. faces legal hurdle

BULLETIN

An official of Gulf Fishermen Incorporated said Saturday the secretary of state has no record of the corporation's charter and indicated the organization does not legally exist.

Ray Bailey, a staff member for the secretary of state, told the Gulf Fishermen official he has no report of the corporation on record in Jackson.

Bailey explained "the only way the fishermen's association may operate a marina is to form a business corporation."

Bailey indicated the lack of a charter may prevent the fishing organization from entering into a contract with the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission to operate the Bayou Cadet Marina.

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Monday will recommend the Board of Supervisors approve Gulf Fishermen Inc. as Bayou Cadet Marina operator.

Commission members voted at their Thursday night meeting four to one in favor of approving Gulf Fishermen's bid of $150 per month for use of the marina.

The action was, in effect, a rejection of a bid from Joyce Garcia, secretary of the fishermen's association, of $100 in addition to a $22,000 proposed capital investment.

Commission members voting in favor of Gulf Fishermen included Oliver Frierson, Ronnie Artigues, Dave McDonald and Fred Curet.

Member Harry Baxter voted against the measure.

"Everyone here is our friend," McDonald said before the Commission.

Whitfield nominated by Chamber

SAM WHITFIELD

Sam Whitfield, a Hancock County timber company owner and Bay St. Louis resident, has been nominated by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce for the title of King Neptune at the 1979 Mississippi Deep Fishing Rodeo July 4-8 in Gulfport.

Whitfield's name will go before a committee of the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo and, if chosen, he will reign as King Neptune over the week's festivities. The king will also be honored at a ball preceding the rodeo.

"Whitfield is a native of Hancock County, and graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1928. From high school he went to work for the H. Weston Lumber Company in Logtown.

In 1938, Whitfield began his own lumber company which he still runs in Kiln.

He is a member of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and a director of Gulf National Bank.

Married to the former Ada Dochterman, they have two sons, Bill and Bob, who also work in the lumber business with their father.

The Whitfields are members of the Main Street United Methodist Church and have four grandchildren.

went into executive session to decide which one of the two bids to accept. "This is a difficult decision we have to make," he lamented.

McDonald stressed the decision would not be based upon the best bidder money-wise; instead, the bid which in the "interest of the greater number of people would be chosen."

He said the money from the marina lease will probably be used to upgrade the marina, anyway.

McDonald said he "...may have voted against his better judgement," in selecting the association bid, "but the contract is only for one year and if the Fishermen's organization can't manage

No tax increase; McCullough

Bay school board OK's $25,000 in wage hikes

By RICH ADAMS

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board Friday approved some $25,000 in local funds for teacher, administrator, and coaching pay raises.

The board hiked the local teaching supplement $100 for 86 'unit teachers,' the first such raise in more than 16 years in the school district.

Superintendent J.D. McCullough recommended the pay increases during a special board meeting Friday afternoon, noting a recent survey of other schools along the Gulf Coast had prompted the recommendation.

McCullough stressed the raises will be given with no increase in millage or taxes to citizens.

He proposed a salary scale for A, AA, and AAA certified teachers, giving those instructors a $800 a year teaching supplement.

This is a $100 increase of that supplement, the first of its kind in some 16 years, according to McCullough.

He also recommended the board approve the salary scale with state fund raises, from as little as $150 a year for a beginning A certification teacher to $1,125 annually for a AAA teacher with 15 years of service.

He also requested an increase in the annual increment for teaching experience, adding $45 each year to the 1979-1980 school year increments.

McCullough explained the salary scale, noting the yearly salary for 86 teachers is set by the state, and the teaching supplement, required by law, is controlled by the school board.

He said he recommended the $100 increase in supplement pay "because of rising inflation."

He explained an additional 14 teachers, called 'non-unit teachers,' must be paid from local funds.

He recommended a total of $3,945 be allotted to that group for a pay increase.

"The issue is money...if we are able to operate this year and come out in the black, we want to see what we can do over and above that next year," McCullough said.

The board also approved an increase

Bay Postal official cites new size rules

"Use up your small and undersized envelopes and cards before July 15," Tim Machen officer in charge at the Bay St. Louis post office reports.

That is the date when the Postal Service's new size standards become effective.

The Bay St. Louis post office official said that after July 15, envelopes and cards measuring less than 3 1/2 inches high or 5 inches long will be returned to the sender if mailed.

Machen said that because the envelope and greeting card industries have had more than three years to prepare for the new standards, few retailers should still be selling undersized pieces.

"Many consumers, however, are likely to still have smaller envelopes and cards in their supply of stationery," Machen said.

The regulations also prohibit flimsy cards. In the future they must be at least seven-thousandths (.007) of an inch thick. An official postal card, for instance, has a thickness of nine thousandths of an inch.

Undersized pieces and flimsy cards are being banned because they can become trapped in other mail, tear and jam mail processing machinery. As a result, the letters of others can also be damaged.

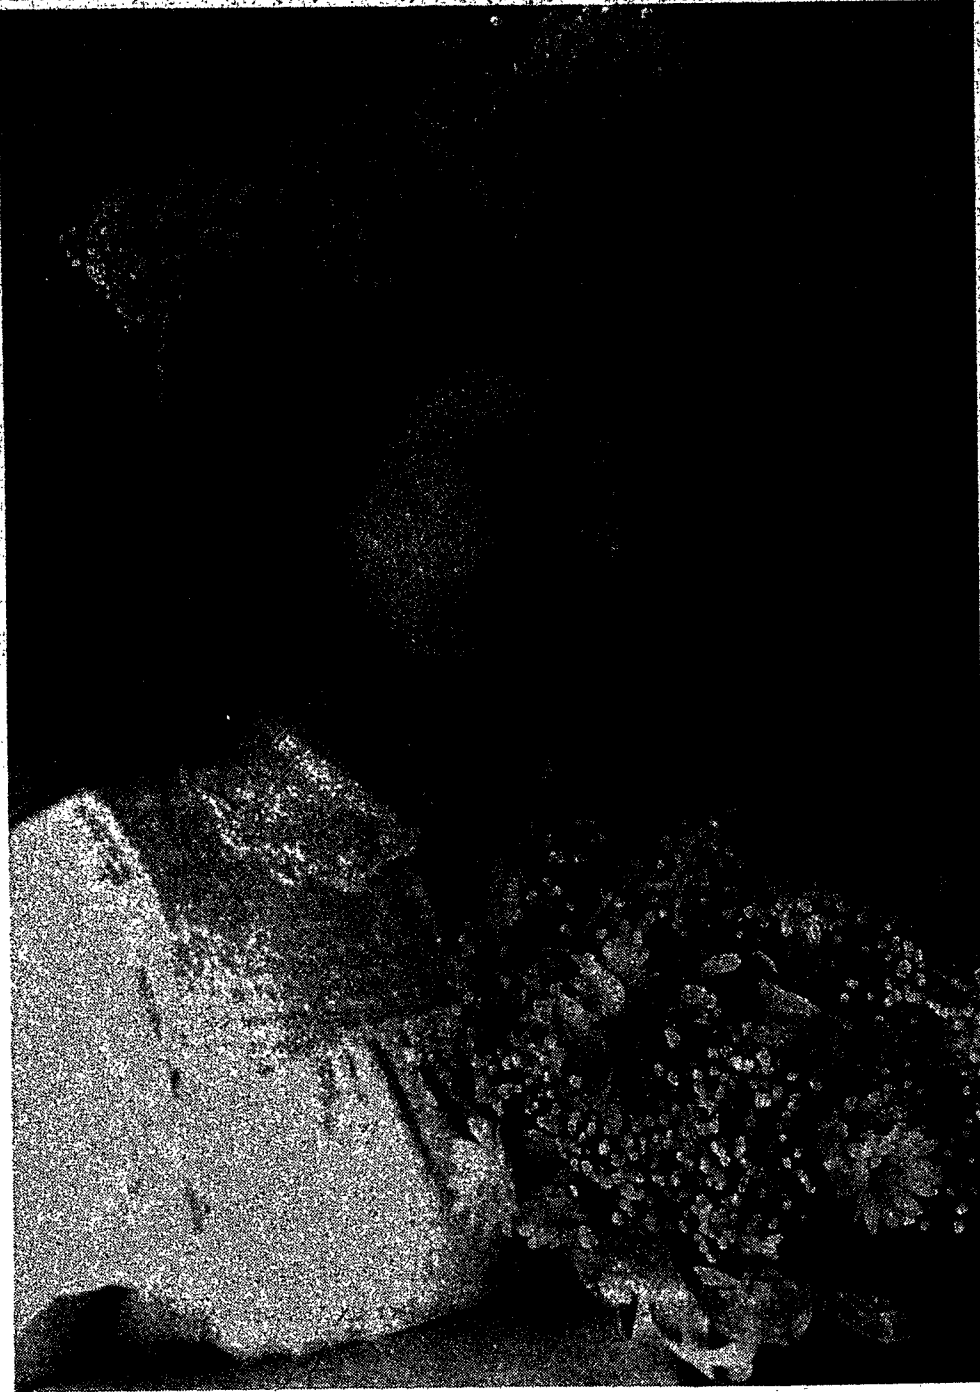

The standards also affect oversized and odd-shaped pieces of mail, Machen said.

For first-class mail weighing one ounce or less, there will be a surcharge of 7 cents for pieces more than 6 1/8 inches high or 11 1/2 inches long.

For more information, the postmaster suggests customers check with a post office window clerk.

For her headpiece she wore her First Communion wreath interwoven with pink silk daisies and baby's breath. She carried a colonial nosegay of silk roses, daisies and lily of the valley in shades of pink and green interspersed with baby's breath.

Library Friends seeking summer reading volunteers

A Parade of Bikes and a One-to-One Summer reading program will be sponsored by Friends of the Library. The group approved the programs at a May 2 meeting.

The Bike Parade with emphasis on bicycle safety is scheduled for June 7 at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Judy McCormick, president of the group, said details concerning the parade would be announced at a later date.

The one-to-one Summer Reading program, a county-wide project, is scheduled to last for eight weeks and Mrs. Ester Oschmann, chairman of the project, is seeking volunteers.

Assistants may select hours to meet their convenience in working with students either in the library or within their homes.

Very few Friends of the Library T-Shirts are unsold. Those wishing to purchase a shirt may do so from the Library's front counter.

Anyone wishing to arrange a display of interesting artifacts or other materials is urged to get in touch with either the library staff or with Joe Pilet, who serves as public relations official for the group.

Currently, the display created through the courtesy of Mrs. Robert Bird of Gulfport, includes "mystery items"—the purpose of some apparently lost in antiquity.

In July, a display of rare and interesting baskets is scheduled through the courtesy of Mmes. Neill Jeffries of Waveland and Frances Walker of Gulfport.

The next regular meeting of Friends of the Library is scheduled for September 5. During a social hour following the regular meeting, Mrs. McCormick was thanked for her leadership and given a hand-painted salt and spice set with the comments that she was "salt of the earth and

Association names Duke director

Mrs. Elda Duke of Waveland was elected to serve a three year term on the Mississippi Lung Association Board of Directors at a recent 67th annual meeting held in Primo's Northgate convention hall, Jackson.

Mrs. Duke has served as Hancock County chairman since 1966.

Dr. John F. Bussey, Jackson, new state president, was installed.

Dr. Clyde A. Watkins, medical consultant at the T. B. Control Unit, Mississippi Board of Health, was principal speaker for the occasion.

PRJC Trustees hike tuition

Pearl River Junior College's Board of Trustees recently increased matriculation fees at the school from $130 per semester to $145 beginning the fall term.

Dr. Marvin R. White, president of the college, said in making the announcement for the PRC board, the $15 per semester matriculation increase was a necessity.

"The board feels we must increase our fees in order to continue to operate in the black next year," White said. "Our enrollment is holding up but the basic cost of running the college continues to climb even faster."

The noon-day meal ticket increased from $75 to $92 per semester and the room and board fee, with a five-day meal ticket, increased from $322.50 to $370.

Rising food costs is the prime reason for the increase in room and board fees. Fees for riding a Pearl River commuter bus were upped from $48 to $60 per semester.

"We didn't want to increase the fees," White said, "but the cost of attending PRC is still lower than most of the other junior colleges in the state and certainly much, much less than the universities in Mississippi."

A student attending Pearl River College in the fall can still get a semester's work for $170 and that includes matriculation, books and transportation to the school from any point within the six-county supporting district.

An individual wanting to reside on campus must pay only $543 per semester and that includes matriculation, books and room and board.

According to Joyce Smith, dean of student activities, 95 percent of the students attending Pearl River next year may be eligible for some type of assistance. For more information concerning financial aid, at PRC call Smith at 765-4558.

The forgotten people

The people we hear very little praise for are the many coaches in Little League, Tee Ball, and other special program leagues.

These people, and some of them are parents of players on teams, devote many hours of their time to practice and getting the kids to the games.

Oh! yes, we have heard several parents gripe several times about why is so and so playing and not my child, but, have they ever offered to coach a team or even help coach a team?

Without a coach a team is lost, and we would like very much to commend the many coaches who give their unselfish time and talents to the youth of our communities.

Other folks we do not want to forget are the league officials and the sponsors of the teams. The talents of the league officials are important in keeping the leagues operating smoothly.

The monies supplied by the sponsors are also very important and they should all be congratulated for the part they play in helping the teams financially.

Over 20 firemen answer call

Fire destroys Bay home

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The home of the John Smith family on Commerce Boulevard in Bay St. Louis was completely destroyed by fire late Friday.

"The whole house was aflame when we arrived on the scene, flames were leaping six foot out of the windows," Bay St. Louis Assistant Fire Chief Andrew Lizana reported.

Harry Ott, neighbor of Smith recalled, "My son Keith had been playing with Noah Hollis and ran home to tell me the Smith home was on fire. Keith told me that he and his friend ran across the street to report the fire to Lamar Crosby."

"I got to the Smith's residence about the same time as Crosby did and we saw a black automobile in their driveway and we backed out into the street," Ott continued.

Ott said he tried to reach the lawn mower and some other items visible in the carport but the flames were leaping out.

He said he heard something pop and he moved back. He added the fire truck arrived only minutes after the alarm was turned in.

Saturday morning State Fire Marshall Norman Corward reported, "The fire started from an accidental origin."

Mrs. Smith said she had just left home to go to the grocery store not too long before the fire started. Neighbors of Mrs. Smith tried to comfort her as firemen continued to extinguish the blaze.

Four fire trucks with over 20 firemen fought the blaze, which included two fire trucks from Bay St. Louis, one from Waveland and one from Diamondhead. Assistant chief Lizana said a fire truck from Pass Christian was on standby at the Bay fire station when both of the Bay fire engines were fighting the blaze.

Mrs. Smith said Saturday, "We appreciate the fine job the Fire departments and Police departments did and everything they did to help us."

"We appreciate the offers of help by so many people. A lady whom we do not know even offered us the use of a bedroom with a private bathroom until we can get things straight," Mrs. Smith added.

"It sure makes you feel good to know you live in a community where so many of your neighbors, friends and people you do not even know are concerned over you when in time of need," she stated.

Ralph Ash, neighbor down the street from the Smith residence said "He thought the smoke he saw at first was fog as it was raining."

Lizana reported two firemen, Robert Gavigue and Kenny Fayard Jr., were overcome with smoke inhalation in fighting the house fire. He said both were recovered Saturday.

Lizana reported said that he arrived at the fire with A. Favre and Shelton Bermond and was immediately helped by neighbors and other firemen responding to the emergency from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead, East Hancock Volunteers and Hancock County Firemen Association members. Fire Chiefs at the scene were Richard Fayard, Bay St. Louis; Kenny Fayard, Waveland; and Ed Friloux, Diamondhead.

Bay, Waveland and Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies controlled traffic with City Utility crews turning off the gas.

Reports indicate the residence was a total loss, the alarm was turned in at 5:15 p.m.

Mr. Smith, Hancock County Agent, was out in the County and didn't discover that his home was destroyed until he returned from work.

School board-teacher

conflict to air on METV

The Mississippi Educational Television Network will broadcast tonight at 7 p.m. Close To Home, the story of school conflicts in a blue-white collar Michigan neighborhood.

A confrontation in September involving teachers, the school board and, ultimately, the community, threatened to tear apart an otherwise peaceful Detroit suburb.

"The place was Arren, Mich., a 'blue-white collar' suburb, but it could have been Anywhere, U.S.A., because its problems are universal," says Boston's WGBH in describing Close to Home, a "one-hour" documentary based on the dispute.

"It's the child of Phil Garvin," says Jim Lehrer, who narrates the documentary, "and his whole concept in producing the film was that there are

Waveland Elementary burglary suspect nabbed

By RICH ADAMS

An 18-year-old Mobile, Ala. youth is in Hancock County Jail after he and a juvenile accomplice reportedly broke into Waveland Elementary School and ate food from the cafeteria.

Gerald Wayne Ellis is being held in the county jail under $5,000 bond following his arrest last week, according to Waveland Police Investigator Robert (Poochie) Tartavouille.

Tartavouille said Waveland Principal James Baldree discovered the two youths in the school Sunday afternoon and reported the break-in to the police. When Waveland Patrolman Terry Tartavouille arrived at the school, the two had fled from the building, the investigator continued.

The patrolman cornered the pair on a side street and arrested Ellis, police said.

Robert Tartavouille said Ellis and the juvenile had prepared hamburgers in the cafeteria and eaten ice cream from a freezer prior to being discovered.

The juvenile kicked out a window during their escape after being spotted by the principal, and required 19 stitches in his right leg for a cut from broken glass, Tartavouille added.

The 18-year-old is charged with burglary and the juvenile was turned over to youth court officials, police reported.

Waveland aldermen delay sewerage refund decision

By RICH ADAMS

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday took under advisement a resident's second request for a $175 waiver on sewerage connections.

Approval of the request may set a precedent in that such action would overturn a decision of a past board.

Aaron Brenske, 705 St. Joseph St., made the waiver request due to hardship conditions, claiming the past board "singled him out" by refusing an earlier request for a waiver.

Brenske claims the former board members took the issue under advisement and were voted from office before action could be taken.

The Waveland resident said he bought a home under the assumption that sewerage was already connected, basing that assumption on the word of the previous owner and an investigation of the home by a Farmer's Home Administration loan inspector.

When he moved into the home, however, he discovered the sewerage was not connected and faced the $175 connection fee.

He reportedly requested a waiver of that fee from the board, but never received an answer.

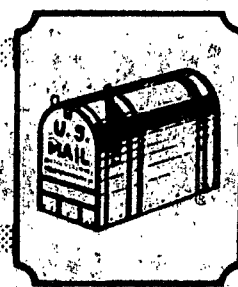

Waveland Mayor John Longo stressed the necessity of fairness in dealing with waivers at Tuesday's meeting, claiming he does not feel Brenske had been discriminated or singled out by the previous board.

Brenske said he read in a newspaper where another Waveland man had been granted a hardship waiver weeks ago and is now constructing a $6,000 garage in his yard.

Longo asked Brenske if, in good faith, he could show and request a

Fire, water district a reality in Kiln

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Mr. Cuevas:

No doubt you are aware of the fact that our $500,000. project for the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District will soon be a reality.

This project will not only provide a reliable water supply to Central Hancock County at reasonable rates but will also give this area fire protection which it so desperately needs.

A modern new fire engine is included in the project. This will also give the residents of the area a reduction in their fire insurance rates.

This project could not have been successful without the support of your fine newspaper. Every time it appeared we were about to lose out, a fine article or editorial appeared in your newspaper unsolicited to give us the boost we needed to keep going.

While each of our Commissioners, the farmers Home Administration and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors worked hard to put this important public project over, we could not have been successful without your support, and we wanted you to know we appreciate it.

Sincerely,
CLEVELAND WYATT,
Chairman

Hertzog places in Teenage Nationals

By RICH ADAMS
St. Stanislaus' Alvarez Hertzog recently captured fourth place in the 18 and 19-year-old category of the Teenage National AAU

Alvarez Hertzog

Weightlifting Meet in Texas, making him among the top five weightlifters in the country in his division. Hertzog totaled 1,102 pounds in the lifting to win the prestigious national trophy, according to SSC Weightlifting Coach Brother Bennett. "Alvarez has just turned 18 and had to lift in a higher age-group category. He may have done even better if he would have lifted in the 16 and 17-year-old group," Brother Bennett said. "I am really pleased with his performance. He has been lifting for less than a year and qualified and placed in national competition," he continued.

"He is the fourth best lifter in his category in the nation," Brother Bennett added. The coach said some 13 lifters were participating in Hertzog's category, and 30 lifters were involved overall. "He stayed right in there and finished with the best. The judges were very strict," Brother Bennett noted.

in a coaches supplement scale, which includes extra money for band directors and extra-curricular activity sponsors as well as athletic coaches.

In the senior high school coaching departments, McCullough recommended the football coach supplement to remain at $1,400 each year.

He added $100 to the boy's basketball coaching supplement, bringing that amount to $1,200.

He increased $400 to the girl's basketball coach's salary, bringing that amount equal to the boy's coach's pay at $1,200.

McCullough recommended increases in track, baseball, and tennis supplements to bring those figures to $450 each.

In junior high coaching, he added $250 to the football coach's supplement, making that sum $500 a year.

He added $300 each to boy's and girl's basketball coaching pay, bringing those salaries to $700 each.

Track coaching supplements remained at $250.00 each year.

The board also authorized yearbook and cheerleader sponsors a $350 supplement, the band director a $900 additional salary, the assistant band director a $450 amount, and the senior play sponsor a $150 sum.

Board Member Walter Turcotte asked if the choral director should be paid a supplement equal to that of the assistant band director, as the choral director has extreme responsibility in taking the choir to contests and events.

McCullough said he will recommend a supplement for the band director after discussing the amount with Senior High School Principal James McGee.

On a motion by Board Member Maurice Singleton, seconded by Board Member Betty Diboll, the salary scale for all teachers and coaching supplements were approved by a unanimous vote.

McCullough then recommended pay raises for administrators, explaining salaries for those employees of the system are set according to the highest paid teacher in each respective school.

The superintendent explained that the present administrator pay scale took months to agree on and that it is working out.

He explained an additional 'responsibility supplement' is included in administrator's pay, based on the amount of responsibility of each job.

The board approved an $1,800 increase in pay for the high school principal moving his salary to $22,424 each year.

The junior high principal received a

$3,512 hike in wages, increasing his pay to $22,757 a year.

The assistant junior high school principal, employed for only 11 months of the year, will receive a $1,581 increase to draw $20,417 each year.

The North Bay Elementary principal will be employed for 10 months of the year and will receive $18,581 annually, a $1,437 increase.

The assistant junior high school principal will work 11 months of the year and receive a $3,183 increase, bringing his earnings to $19,838 each year.

The Waveland Elementary School principal was approved for 1 month of employment, hiking his pay 1,134 to $19,838 each year.

And the assistant superintendent will receive an $1,800 raise, bringing his annual pay to $25,442.

On a motion by Turcotte, seconded by Singleton, the board unanimously approved the issue.

The board also approved a seven percent increase in non-certified employees such as janitors, secretaries, and bookkeepers.

The raise is an increase across the board, and McCullough said the raise was recommended because "these people really need help."

Singleton's motion, seconded by Diboll, was approved to authorize the raise.

the facility the Commission can try a new approach next year.

Commission Director Wilson Webre praised Ms. Garcia for biding on the Marina.

"I think you have offered a service to the community," Webre said.

Gulf Fishermen's President Thomas Holzhauser told the Commission the organization plans to hire one person to manage the facility. The docking area, unloading, loading and selling of catch will be handled by the manager, he said.

The manager would in turn represent the wishes of the fishermen, because the organization would direct his actions, the association president pointed out.

Webre announced the Bayou Cadet anchorage basin project 'study' should be completed within the next 90 days.

Fishermen at the meeting maintained lack of docking facilities at Bayou Cadet is the greatest problem for election every four years.

"If we don't do our job we are replaced at election time under the way things are now," Klein insists.

"Under the fee-system the taxpayer does not have to pay anything," Klein reiterates.

"Besides," he continues, "the more money the judges acquire, the more money the county makes."

"For each fine in Justice Court, the youth court gets $3 and driver education gets $2 per $15 of each fine ranging from $15 fine to a maximum $100," Klein continued.

"The library gets $1, the judge gets $10 and the remainder goes to the general county fund," Klein stated.

"If the fee-system was done any other way it would cost the taxpayer who knows what," he emphasized.

Klein says judges are scrutinized closely during auditing.

"I know almost everyone in my district on a personal basis, I was born and raised here. Sometimes I have to get up at 1 or 2 a.m. to deal with a constituent's problem—it's a tremendous responsibility," he intoned.

"I think we deserve every penny we get," he elaborated.

Dobson refutes marijuana case guilty reports

District Four Justice Court Judge Joe Dobson reports his court did not find six members of a group 'not guilty' in a Wednesday trial involving 14 arrested in a raid by Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Dobson, in a telephone conversation Thursday said, "Of the 14 with charges against them, one was represented by an attorney from out of town."

"In a bargaining session involving the sheriff, Deputy Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, County Prosecutor John Chevis and the attorney who then represented all of the defendants, an agreement was reached that eight would be fined $100 each, providing the State would not prosecute the other six," the judge explained.

"They approached my bench and asked if this was satisfactory to me," he continued.

The judge added, "The six were not found 'not guilty' as originally reported, but rather, the State failed to prosecute them."

"That is the way you will find this case recorded in my docket," Dobson stated.

Few Hollywood careers have been more fabulous, more scandalous, more publicized than that of Joan Crawford, and in JOAN CRAWFORD: A Biography, Bob Thomas, who has been covering the Hollywood beat for the Associated Press for 35 years, attempts to uncover the complete story surrounding her dazzling successes and tragic failures.

CRAWFORD AND GABLE

JOAN CRAWFORD, an extraordinary rags-to-riches story, chronicles the actress' single-minded climb to stardom.

Through countless interviews with Crawford herself and more than 200 of her friends, co-workers and family, Bob Thomas offers a rare view of the actress as an angry and courageous young girl who endured a very painful and unhappy childhood.

Born Lucille LeSueur, she was deserted by her father, physically abused by her mother and forced to support herself while still very young.

Not until she left for Hollywood and took the name Joan Crawford did her fate begin to change.

JOAN CRAWFORD details every aspect of her legendary career, as well as her stormy affairs with Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy, and her tempestuous marriages to Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Franchot Tone, actor Phil Terry and Pepsi Cola executive Al Steele.

It also tells the truth about her often bizarre Jekyll-Hyde behavior—her obsession with cleanliness, her fabled cruelty to her children, her habit of sending out thousands of personally signed Christmas cards every year, as well as how she anonymously financed hospital care for less fortunate actors and crew members, and provided jobs in her films for loyal workers throughout her career.

They wish to avoid the medications during delivery, known to narcotize the baby as well as the mother.

On the other hand, 5 to 10 percent of pregnancies involve some type of "complication."

About 12 percent of deliveries beginning in the home wind up in the hospital anyway, according to recent studies in the United States.

Most physicians don't like the idea of home deliveries and they like the idea of midwives even less.

Home deliveries are potentially hazardous, they say.

Even though the great majority of pregnancies result in uncomplicated deliveries, catastrophes can occur quickly in childbirth, and when they do they are dealt with more easily in a hospital than at home.

Besides, a physician can only be in one place at a time. In a hospital setting the obstetrician can attend to several women in labor, if

ASK DOCTOR HIPPOCRATES

BY EUGENE SCHOENFELD, M.D.

Last week a friend from Southern California telephoned with a rather strange request.

His second child had been delivered at home some months before by a midwife. The midwife now needed a fresh supply of pitocin, a drug which artificially induces labor and shrinks the uterus following delivery.

Could I send her a prescription for the pitocin, my friend asked?

I declined, suggesting to my friend that the mid-wife should be working with a physician in her vicinity who could prescribe drugs to her if he thought it necessary.

That was the trouble, my friend said, the mid-wife couldn't find a physician to work with her.

There was no doubt in my mind about the propriety of sending a prescription for a powerful drug to someone I didn't know and who wasn't licensed to administer it anyway.

My friend's request was completely off the wall. But the situation did bring to focus a common dilemma of many young couples—the desire for home deliveries and the continuing resistance of the medical establishment to home deliveries.

The issues are fairly clear. On the one hand many people want their babies born in a natural environment. They don't want their babies taken away from them and placed in a nursery.

They want to avoid the incredibly high cost of hospitalization. Hospitals, after all, are for sick people and pregnancy is not an illness.

They wish to avoid the medications during delivery, known to narcotize the baby as well as the mother.

On the other hand, 5 to 10 percent of pregnancies involve some type of "complication."

About 12 percent of deliveries beginning in the home wind up in the hospital anyway, according to recent studies in the United States.

Most physicians don't like the idea of home deliveries and they like the idea of midwives even less.

Home deliveries are potentially hazardous, they say.

Even though the great majority of pregnancies result in uncomplicated deliveries, catastrophes can occur quickly in childbirth, and when they do they are dealt with more easily in a hospital than at home.

Besides, a physician can only be in one place at a time. In a hospital setting the obstetrician can attend to several women in labor, if necessary, rather than racing over the countryside from one home to another.

The revival of mid-wifery is one answer to this geographic problem. But few physicians choose to work with midwives.

They're seen as competition in some areas of the country. So the result is all too often the illegal practice of medicine.

Mid-wives should all be working in close contact with physicians. Many are well trained in obstetrics.

But some merely feel the call and qualified or not, medically supervised or not, they've set out to fill the demand for home deliveries.

Some hospitals responding to the desire for natural childbearing practices have instituted more humane childbearing practices.

Labor rooms are homier, fathers may observe and participate in deliveries, fewer drugs are used, breast feeding and "rooming in" are encouraged.

The new electronic gadgets proliferating in hospital obstetric wards may be saving some babies, but they are also killing more mothers.

Why? Because electronically monitoring the fetal heartbeat results in increased numbers of Cesarean sections.

When an irregular or slow heartbeat indicates fetal distress, the obstetrician is apt to deliver the baby surgically rather than wait for a vaginal delivery.

These Cesarean sections supposedly save more babies, but due to the risks attending any major surgery, increased numbers of mothers die.

According to Dr. Robert Mansfield, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the Indiana University School of Medicine, one mother is sacrificed for every eight babies saved by electronic monitoring based on national statistics.

The increased maternal death rate is due to surgical deaths from Cesarean sections.

And according to a study by Dr. John McFee of Denver General Hospital, electronic monitoring of the fetus doesn't even improve the chances for the babies in high-risk pregnancies, but does triple the chances for Cesarean section.

Fetal monitoring, by the way, often involves running a wire through the cervix into the uterus and screwing the wire into the scalp of the fetus.

Dr. McFee's study showed that well-trained nurses were as dependable as electronic gadgets in recognizing abnormal fetal heart rate patterns requiring immediate delivery.

The rate of C-sections in a high-risk pregnancy group of 69 women was 38 percent in the electronically-monitored group compared with 6 percent in those actually cared for by nurses.

Quoted in Family Practice News, January 15, 1979, Dr. Munsicle said, "Beeps, staccato sounds, graphs and electrodes have replaced touch, so there is no wonder at the public push for home deliveries."

Dr. Schoenfeld welcomes your letters, but can answer questions only within this column. Write to him in care of the Echo, Box 280, Bay St. Louis, 39520.
